

Jury after jury, juries of the American people, have found this has been going on only to be overturned by the judges who say, Sorry. Because of McCarran-Ferguson, those basic monopoly rules do not apply. The anti-trust rules do not apply.

This is a chance for us to do a simple two-page bill that puts patients ahead of the profiteering of the insurance companies. It doesn't say the insurance companies can't continue to make lots of money. They can. We're just saying you can't do it by colluding, by price-fixing and by doing the sorts of things that, since Teddy Roosevelt, we've put our foot down in this country and have said are anticompetitive behaviors.

It should be a great chance for everyone in this body to show the people back in their districts: I'm here to represent you, not to represent the lobbyists who write the checks, not the $400 million that the insurance lobby spent last year in this city. It's a chance to say, I'm going to stand up for patients.

This is not going to fix the entire health care problem, but why wouldn't we start with this? We know it has bipartisan support from the attorneys general. We know it has that bipartisan support from the President Bush commission that came out and said this needs to be done. It moves us in the right direction to put patients and doctors back in the driver's seat. It allows us to restore the basic sense of competition in this country. It says, for once, working and middle class families are going to come out ahead of the special interests. Consumers are going to come out ahead of the greed mentality that you talked about before.

We can do this. The American people send us here to do this—to listen and to find ideas which are not Republican or Democrat but which are fundamentally American ideas and to institute them. We will need to continue to have a debate about health care reform beyond tomorrow, but let's show the American people tomorrow, on the eve of this health care summit, that there are ideas we can come together on. We have that chance.

So I come in to tomorrow with a great hope, with a great hope not only that we will get this bill passed but that it will restore a basic sense of competition and that it will put patients first. Maybe this could be the first step towards coming together in the health care debate to get things done, because people are in pain out there right now. We have lost millions of jobs. Yes, we took bold action a year ago to help stabilize the economy, but that's not enough. I'm not satisfied. We need economic growth.

So I appreciate the work that Ms. MARKEY has put into this, that Chairwoman SLAUGHTER and that Congressman DEFAZIO have put into this, and I thank the others who have fought this good progressive fight for so long. I look forward to seeing this through to completion tomorrow, and I thank you all for being part of this important, important fight.
